

MARY JO WILLIAMS

Mary Jo Williams has devoted her career to character education, leadership, and volunteer development.

Currently she's a faculty member at the 4-H Center for Youth Development at the University of Missouri and writes curricula and presents character workshops for Missouri 4-H. She's also on loan to the U.S. Army's Child, Youth & School Services where she coordinates its character-education program.

In her free time, Williams volunteers for 4-H, church, and school and enjoys gardening, reading, traveling, and spending time with her family.
